WE NOMINATE

Earl Leroy Douglass, one of the most articulate and widely read clergymen of this century, who on the threshold of his 75th birthday (Thursday, August 22) continues to reach well over 500,000 readers each week of the year. His remarkable "ministry of the pen," stemming from long years of dedicated service to the Presbyterian Church and to educational institutions, was called to mind, and underscored, over the past week-end by the published assertions of author-critic Clifton Fadiman and others in calling attention to their own literary productivity as measured in terms of long sustained series of essays.

Conservatively speaking, the indefatigable Douglass, Pennsylvania-born and a resident of Princeton since his "retirement" in 1945, during the past three decades has written for publication some 8,000,000 words, the estimated equivalent of 70 popular novels. Now under contract to produce 300,000 words a year, Douglass has yet to miss a deadline in writing two nationally syndicated newspaper columns, the daily "Strength for the Day," and his weekly commentary on the International Sunday School Lesson, which together reach 102 major daily publications. Incidentally, the latter, originated in the 1890's by theologian William T. Ellis, is the nation's oldest syndicated newspaper feature.

For each of the past 27 years, ever since he took over for the Macmillan Company the Snowden Commentaries on the International Sunday School lessons (now known as the Douglass Lessons), he has issued a hard-cover octavo volume of about 500 pages designed for the use of Sunday School teachers of all denominations in all parts of the country. By improving the quality of the original Snowden books, and by bringing them into line with modern methods of teaching, the use of this volume has jumped from a norm of 7,000 copies to the current year's printing of 25,000. One commentator has noted that "few ministers have ever reached larger, or more influential, congregations."

A member of the Princeton Class of 1913, and a graduate of Union Theological Seminary, Douglass for 28 years was pastor of Presbyterian Churches in Tonawanda, N. Y., Poughkeepsie, N. Y. and Germantown, Pa. It was during this period of preaching and teaching from his pulpit, and administering to the needs of his pastorates, that he entered upon what he terms "my present employment"—writing. His first columns in a small Poughkeepsie daily, supplemented by two widely accepted works, "Prohibition and Common Sense" and "The Faith We Live By," paved the way to ever-growing syndication.

Douglass, the recipient in 1958 of the Freedoms Foundation's George Washington medal, has long exemplified the traditional association of the ministry with education. A former trustee of the College of Wooster (Ohio), of Lincoln University and of Princeton's Westminster Choir College, he has been identified since 1921 with the governing Board of Regents of the Mercersburg Academy (Pennsylvania). In 1960, upon completing 26 years as president of the Mercersburg Board, he resigned his post only to receive the title of Honorary President and life-long membership as an Academy Regent.

For seeming to grow in resourcefulness as he carries forward what an associate calls his "highly valuable and important writing tasks"; for his unusual and varied accomplishments within the far-reaching field of his chosen ministry; for ever seeking to relate Christianity to daily life in the "terse, clear and plain language of the day"; he is our nominee as

SCHOOL IN THE NEWS
To Cost a Third More. The changing face of Princeton made unexpected news Tuesday night at a Borough Board of Education meeting which, in other years, has been so unimportant that it has often been by-passed entirely in mid-July.

In the face of the town's ever-increasing population, the elementary school scheduled to be built northeast of Princeton High is being designed to accommodate 1,000 pupils — somewhat more than in the original concept. And in view of long-range possibilities of merger between Borough and Township school systems, Kump and Associates, the architects, have been charged with making the building easily adaptable as a junior high school.

The working mother in Princeton's two-paycheck households has overwhelmed the capacities of the present cafeterias through her noon-time absence from the home, so lunchroom facilities will provide space for all children. And because of increasing community demands for meeting and sports space, there will be a junior high school-size gym and an auditorium seating 450 persons.

As a result, cost of the proposed building — which will replace the Nassau Street and Witherspoon schools — has jumped from the December 1961 estimate of $1,850,000 to $2,500,000. The Board of Education will seek State approval on August 13 of a $1,278,000 bond issue to help underwrite the cost, with sale of the existing school properties expected to contribute a major share of the eventual outlay.

A second referendum (one was held last September to approve the cost of buying the land) will be held to gain approval of the new bond issue. It is scheduled for Tuesday, October 15.

The Particulars. Architect Dale Sprenkle of Kump Associates said at Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Education that the building on Walnut Lane would be of brick, but that no further detail had been decided as to the appearance. "But we are opposed to baked enamel designs and large areas of window glass." The target date for completion is September 1965. Bids will be asked late next spring.

The preliminary drawings actually show five buildings — or "schools within a school." There will be a large central structure with a smaller, two-story building on each side. The four smaller units will be appportioned to kindergarten, grades one through three, the intermediate grades four through six, and upper grades seven and eight.

In the central structure, joined with brief passageways to each of small units, are administration offices, library, visual aids center, cafeteria (with separation of older and younger children), the auditorium and gymnasium. The roof over the auditorium and gym will be two stories high.

Each of the smaller units is next to play areas suitable for the age group. The total building area is 90,000 square feet in a plot of about 14 acres.

Plans also include a teachers' conference room, industrial arts, home economics and science laboratories, a room off the library suitable for special study or meetings, and facilities for educable children.

Interior and exterior sketches by the architect will be available by early September, if the state approves the tentative floor plans and bond issue.

Financing. Attorney William Miller said at Tuesday's meeting that a minimum of $650,000 will be raised from the sale of the Nassau Street and Witherspoon schools. In September 1962 the public approved a bond issue of $172,000 to pay for the land, and these bonds have not been issued.

Further, by getting in step with the Borough, which collects taxes on a calendar year, $400,000 will be realized. (By the end of 1963, the Borough will have collected the taxes for the school year 1963-64 — or six months in advance.) Mr. Miller estimates that a total of $1,222,000 is available, therefore requiring a bond issue of $1,278,000.

Dr. Barbidge Resigns. The board announced the resignation of Dr. John R. Barbidge as school physician. Dr. Howard S. Unangst was appointed to replace him.

The board also expressed its gratitude for the PTA's assistance in taking the census of borough school children. The mountain of figures, according to Superintendent Chester A. Stroup, is now in the process of analysis.

Round-Up

The moon eclipsed the sun but a thunderstorm eclipsed the eclipse Saturday, as Princetonians looking in vain for any view of the phenomenon went indoors to circle 2017 as the year when near-totality will next occur in New Jersey. . . . actually, a solar eclipse beginning in the Gulf of Mexico and sweeping northeast of here across Nantucket will be visible to some degree in New Jersey only seven years from now in 1970.

As Saturday's celestial show began, those with various home-made viewers could see the moon's shadow begin to edge across the sun but the clouds and then rain followed. . . . as matters turned out, it was not much darker than during any summer storm featuring low-hanging clouds. . . . as it to attempt partial compensation, Mother Nature hung a colorful rainbow in the east about the time the eclipse ended.

Bright spots on the Princeton economic front far outnumber an occasional downward trend. . . . that's the picture reflected in the quarterly Princeton Business Index (page 15), now in its sixth year as a TOWN TOPICS feature. . . . Mailbox (page 8) includes a commentary on last week's report on a violation of human rights, as well as directions on how to play the game of "traffic roulette."

Princetonians differ on their predictions about the possibility of an agreement banning nuclear tests, but there is a general note of optimism. . . . Question of the Week, page 5. . . . golf, tennis and baseball dominate the sports pages (19-20), but next week will mark the first of four articles evaluating 1963 chances of Princeton's football team, a TOWN TOPICS summer feature for the past decade.

Washington Road, invariably traffic-jammed between 4 and 5 p.m., is closed this week between Prospect and Nassau to permit construction of a service tunnel which will provide heat and air-conditioning for the building to arise on the site vacated by the Woodrow Wilson School last spring. . . . traffic is expected to go through again by Friday night, with Faculty Road or Prospect available in the meantime as detours.

The Township Police Department will be augmented in a few weeks by two probationary patrolmen selected from among 25 applicants who have completed various tests given them. . . . less Township residents (three) were among the 25 seeking the appointments than from the Borough and adjoining Lawrence and Ewing Townships and Trenton.

Mrs. Mark S. Munn, Stony Brook Road, Hopewell, a co-owner of The Flower Coop, 69 Palmer Square, lost $300 in cash from a manila envelope while walking to the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, Borough police reported. . . . John F. Bliss, 6 McCosh Circle, had Weather during the past week topped 90 three times, but the typical stretch of heat and humidity was broken by more than an inch of rain. . . . the long-range forecast for the next 30 days calls for temperature to average below normal and rainfall to run somewhat above average, a welcome outlook to amateur gardeners, farmers of all degrees and golfers weary of parched fairways.

TO CLARIFY POLICY

On "Ability Grouping." Should John and Mary, who are whizzes at arithmetic, study in the same group as Billy and Ann who are still shaky on their "take-aways?" And should Elaine, who has a fresh use of words, work in the same group as Mike, whose interest lies elsewhere?

The Township School Board

Help Wanted

There is an August 5 deadline on suggestions to fill the vacancy on the Township Board of Education. The appointee will complete the term of Willis Bussard, which expires February 1964. Mr. Bussard resigned last month because he is moving from Princeton.

Recommendations may be sent to Richard Pearson, board president, or to Norman J. Anderson, secretary of the board.

will meet at 8:15 p.m. this Thursday in the Community Park School to discuss in detail its "ability grouping" policies with the interested public. The policies have been questioned by a group of 22 parents.

The parents wrote to the board asking whether it will "increasingly further the education of a small group of gifted or near-gifted children at the top and increasingly discourage and demoralize the majority."

In a letter dated July 16 sent to each of the parents, the board defended its system, calling attention to the fluency with which children move from one ability group to another "as they spurt ahead or temporarily drop behind according to their individual, and frequently erratic, progress."

The board added, "There is neither stigma nor accolade attached to the grouping within a classroom or in the special subject classes. The purpose of such grouping is to enable the child to learn at his own rate. . . ."

At the urging of Mrs. Sabra F. Meserve, who requested more give and take of opinion "than your elegant letter allows," the board agreed to the public meeting.

MONDAY is the last day on which classified ads may be changed or cancelled. New classified advertisements may be inserted until 5 p.m. Tuesday.

STREETS, SEWER, SIGNS
 Township Committee Meets.
 Township Committee heard and took action Monday on a number of matters ranging in importance from ironing out the obstacle course that is lower Alexander Street and approving the construction of an 1,800-foot sewer extension on The Great Road, to listening patiently to the complaints of the aggrieved chairman of the Traffic Safety Committee.

The realignment of Alexander Street will do away with the double switchback by which the thoroughfare cuts first sharp right, then left to cross the lake and canal and then reverses the angles to meet Alexander Road to Route One. Committee passed the ordinance by a vote providing $17,250 in supplemental funds for the township's share of the work.

This amount, plus $23,450 in state funds already available, will cover the cost of construction on the Princeton side of the canal. West Windsor will pick up the tab for the work across the township line.

The committee acknowledged with appreciation the fact that the University had made the new right-of-way available over property it owns and that it also was contributing a large amount of fill to the project.

To Buy Triangle? At Mayor Fairman's suggestion, the committee also decided to place on the agenda for future action potential negotiation to purchase the triangle of land which will lie between the present zig-zag and the realigned road.

It was the Mayor's thought that the small section should be bought as a possible future exit for an extension of Springdale Road.

The Township Committee also gave a 5-0 final vote on the ordinance to build the sewer extension at the end of the line now being installed by Stuart Country Day School. The extension will be built before fall so that The Great Road can be realigned in that area, probably sometime next year.

Two New Ordinances. Committee also approved unanimously on first reading, with public hearing and final vote scheduled for August 19.

• An ordinance to provide $7,500 for drainage on Ewing Street, widening of Ewing Street between Mount Lucas Road and State Road, and the cutting of an opening in the traffic island on Harrison Street North opposite the new First Aid and Rescue Squad headquarters. The opening would be available for emergency vehicles only.

• An ordinance providing a fixed method of approving claims against the township, a procedure required by state law.

In addition, the committee heard a report on a board of health recommendation for a $16,200 sewer extension on Herrontown Road and recommended that the "up-hill people" on Autumn Hill Road be informed of the probable availability of sewer facilities to them in the near future.

Monday's meeting ended with a lengthy complaint by Traffic Safety Committee chairman Henry J. Frank on the continued installation of parking restriction signs and no-parking curb painting where none has been authorized. The Township Committee felt that such matters should properly be settled within Mr. Frank's group.

Mr. Frank hotly protested that the matter was "not petty but involved the exercise of governmental procedures." But in the end he tacitly agreed to thrash out similar details with his own committee in the future.

LIQUOR STORE CLOSED
 For Sale to Minor. Admission that it had sold two bottles of whiskey to a 17-year-old boy will cost Cousins Co., Palmer Square liquor store, 15 business days, Borough Council ruled Tuesday night.

The sentence actually ordered a 20-day closing but a remission of five days was granted following the store's plea of "non vult" admission of an inadvertent act. The 15-day closing will begin Monday at 12:01 a.m.

Patrolman Russell Shangle testified to the governing body in special session Tuesday that he had spotted one of the juveniles leaving Cousins on June 6 with the whiskey. After walking toward Chambers Street, the youth met a friend to whom he handed one of the bottles.

Patrolman Shangle took both minors back to the store, where their ages were established. The pair will be given a hearing in juvenile court for the misdemeanor but because of their age their identities have been withheld.

Bruce H. French entered the non vult plea for the defendant as its attorney. The sentence was longer than the minimum inasmuch as the violation was the third with which Cousins has been charged in the last year and a half. One of the three cases was dismissed.

Patrolman Shangle will receive a commendation from Council for his action in apprehending the juveniles Chief Peter J. McCrohan said that minors have been particularly active in recent weeks in their attempts to purchase liquor illegally.

THREE STATIONS ENTERED

On Route 206. Three Princeton gasoline service stations — Tony's Sunoco, 217 Bayard Lane; Pete & Mike's Mobil Service, 171 Bayard; and Butler's Atlantic Service, Cherry Valley Road and Route 206 — were entered between Saturday evening and Sunday morning. In each instance, entry was gained by breaking a rear garage window.

The thieves made their biggest haul at Tony's. There they took a box of tools valued at $5000; 10 tires worth a total of $280-$300; a dozen cans of polish, $30; and three gallons of oil, $9.75. Approximately $13 in silver was taken from the Butler station cash register and $51.25 from the third station.

ALLIANCE TO MEET HERE

At Theological Seminary. Six days of meetings will begin Monday for the executive committee of the World Alliance of Reformed and Presbyterian Churches. Thirty-two churchmen from 23 denominations in 15 countries will participate in the sessions at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Dr. Wilhelm Niesel, moderator of the Reformed Church of Germany, will address the festival service marking the 400th anniversary of the Heidelberg Catechism next Wednesday at the Second Reformed Church of New Brunswick. The Heidelberg Catechism is called the "most ecumenical of the Protestant confessions," and was the basis for uniting the Lutheran and Calvinist believers in Germany.

The Alliance, oldest of world confessional bodies, was founded in 1875. A general council is scheduled for August, 1964, in Frankfurt, Germany, under the chairmanship of James I. McCord, president of the Seminary.

The executive committee will discuss the council as well as hearing a report from Alliance delegates to the Second Vatican Council and considering.

THEY AGREE THERE WILL BE NO AGREEMENT: Roth Ernie Pignona (left) and Emory Kemler believe there will be no test ban agreement reached between Russia and the United States. A few are more optimistic, however. For their opinions, see below. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think Russia and the United States will ever reach a satisfactory nuclear test ban agreement?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Ernest Pignona, Cherry Hill Road, apprentice mechanic, Lahiere-Kane: No, I don't, because from what I've read in the papers and heard in the news, Russia isn't going to give in to the U.S. and the U.S. isn't going to give in to Russia. Russia is just too hard-headed. I think this testing is stupid. We've got the bomb and they've got the bomb. Both countries have more than enough to kill each other off so I don't see why they have to keep on testing. Why can't they concentrate on putting it to peaceful uses?

Emory Kemler, Trenton, mechanic, Lahiere-Kane: No, I just feel that Russia and the U.S. will never get along together. They have two different beliefs. Russia has its ideas and we have ours. We just can't see eye-to-eye.

Mrs. Mary Ellen McCune, 1 Harris Road, copywriter: It will probably depend on how worried Russia gets and stays about the Chinese Reds.

Allen Hartley, 126 Moore Street, arborist: Yes, I think they're going to have to some time. I believe if a country builds something, it is going to use it. It doesn't matter if it is machine guns or atom bombs. It seems that all through history it's been proven that no matter what a country may have stockpiled for war, they've used. And I'm afraid both countries have huge atomic stockpiles. So, as far as testing goes, I feel you have to stop or go use them. One of the two. Until there is better agreement and better understanding between Russia and the U.S., there is going to be constant bickering back and forth. But I hold out hope that they will be able to reach a test ban agreement in the future.

Miss Barbara Hayes, M.B.E. (Member of the Order of the British Empire), Province Line Road, receptionist for the Learning Center, Bank Street: I would say that depends entirely on the Sino-Soviet relations — what happens between China and Russia. I think this affects the whole future of civilization. If the rupture between the two becomes more pronounced, then Russia would very much indeed become more amenable to test ban talks, both with the United States and with Great Britain.

Mrs. Alex Hamil, Rockmart, Ga., housewife: No, I just don't think they will ever be able to work it out. Russia will never compromise to the point of not ever permitting any testing. I think Russia values her secrecy too much. They don't want to have anything out in the open. They like to have their secrets, I guess, so they can stay one step ahead of everybody.

Lyman Spitzer, 16 Prospect Avenue, chairman of Princeton University Department of Astro-Physical Sciences: I think it is possible they might reach an agreement but whether it will be satisfactory to everybody is doubtful. I'm sure some people in this country would oppose the only kind of ban we could reach with Russia just as some people in Russia would oppose it.

Mrs. Stanley Stein, Nassau Garden Apartments, teacher: It seems too much to expect. I think President Kennedy has been very patient as far as dealing with Russia on a test ban. We'll just have to wait and see. I hope we do, but I am not overly optimistic. Khrushchev has been a little more friendly which may just be another one of their psychological maneuvers or not. We want to be able to inspect seven times a year. Khrushchev says three. I think we ought to take three if that is all we can get because this is something. Otherwise, we have nothing.

Anthony Schannel, Rocky Hill, clerk for Thorne's Pharmacy: No, I don't think so. I just don't think they ever will. We want certain things and Russia wants certain things. I think they will just keep on talking and talking.

Bernard Kotler, North Bergen, accountant, Institute for Advanced Study: Yes, because if I was pessimistic there just wouldn't be anything to hope for. I believe there will have to be a lot of compromises not only on Russia's part but our own as well. We can be pretty stubborn ourselves.

Mrs. Robert Buchanan, 79 Bayard Lane, secretary: Well, I certainly hope they will. I'm no authority on the subject but what I think they actually need is a little more patience and a little more understanding on both sides. I think it can be done but I think it is going to take some big people with a great understanding of other countries.

housewife: I don't think they will probably ever come to any agreement. The countries have different philosophies, different economic backgrounds. And the people here are so divided. Some say, yes, we should have a ban, other areas say, no. So how can nations agree if the people themselves are so divided. And I feel that if they ever did reach some agreement, Russia would play tricks, sooner or later.

Miss Gail Hadley, Morrisville, Pa., legal secretary for Princeton attorney: No, I do not. I just don't think Russia would ever agree to any ban. I don't think Russia would stick to it even if there were some sort of agreement. I don't see any future to these talks because I don't think Russia will ever agree to anything.

THAT'S NOT JUDO, ROCK, IT'S LOVE: Mary Peach and Rock Hudson stage an amorous catch-as-catch-can in "A Gathering of Eagles," currently on screen at the Garden.

News Of The THEATRES

Summer Magic (through Tuesday) Kate Douglas Wiggin, intrepid teller of tales, scratched out "Mother Carey's Chickens" in 1910. In 1963 it appears as a product of Walter Elias Disney's barnyard. Frankly, it's a chick.

The Disney recipe is abundantly evident: a corn pudding of hearts and flowers, sweetness and light, fauna and flora. All served up with an icky, sticky syrup. The result is acutely heart-burning rather than pleasantly heart-warming.

Can a fatherless family face adversity bravely? Yes. ("Gee-fully") Of course. Successfully? Nah. Of such stuff is "Summer Magic" made.

Quarterbacking the Carey team is Hayley Mills, who apparently couldn't get most of her acting talents through Customs when she left England and "Tiger Bay" for the rubber room in Disneyland. She gets support of a sort from Burl Ives, Dorothy McGuire and the likes.

"Summer Magic" might charm preadolescents. For anyone over twelve it is likely to produce all the symptoms of narco-sis.

PRINCE

Bye, Bye Birdie (through next Friday) The story line of "Birdie" displays an absence of freshness and imagination which puts it right down there with most Hollywood musicals. Rough-hewn from a Broadway hit, it is designed as a showpiece for the talents of Ann-Margret, 1963 nominee of the Harvard Lampoon as "least promising young performer of the year."

Miss Ann-Margret at 21 is a pretty big kid to be doing the part of 16-year-old Kim McFee, but, by making full use of her acting abilities, from A to B she manages. And her zesty dancing and cheerfulness do help "Birdie" from laying an egg.

The story's humor is supposed to come chiefly from the sight and sound of teenage females swooning over at first the imminent, then the actual, presence of Conrad Birdie. Conrad, a gyro-haunched r&r-shouter in gold lameskin-suit, is in town (Sweet Apple, O., that is) to plant a "last kiss" on Ann-Margret's chops before he goes into the army.

Ann-Margret is tapped for the osculatory salute because of her reverence for Birdie. The kiss, as you might guess, is for promotion, not emotion, on an Ed Sullivan TV show.

That's the story, and you can see that it doesn't overburden the mind. Some of the lines are reasonably amusing, but most of them are non-convulsive. (Sample: "I pledge my allegiance to Conrad Birdie and to the United States of America.")

Offsetting the firesome theme and its stringent economy of humor and spontaneity, however, is a series of musical numbers which are done with clan, wit and inventiveness. If you can tolerate the silly story, you'll find the production numbers surprisingly clever. They're good enough to keep "Birdie" from expiring with the pip — and that means they have to be more than pretty good.

GARDEN

A Gathering of Eagles (through Tuesday) Here we go into the wild blue yonder — with Rock Hudson at the controls. Rock takes over as wing commander at the Carmody, Calif. Air Force base because the outfit busted its job in a no-warning operational readiness inspection.

When he moves into the slot, he blows things sky-high by firing people he thinks are below standard, by accusing the base commander of being a rumpot (whereupon the base commander promptly shoots himself), and by even dumping his best buddy, Rod Taylor. Despite Rock's gracious manner, it becomes frighteningly clear that one must apparently be more paranoid than pilot to make a Strategic Air Command wing straighten up and fly right.

The operation of a SAC unit is furiously demanding and psychologically crippling, judging from "Gathering." Every alert is only a field problem, except that there is always the itching worry that maybe it really isn't.

Under Hudson's unbenevolent dictatorship the wing shapes up, brings off the fifteen-minute scramble from ground to air with impressive finesse, and passes the necessary inspection. The fact that Hudson, who supposedly lives by the book, has to break a number of SAC's inviolable rules is neatly dodged.

In one reviewer's opinion, if this is not how SAC-time is racked up, the Air Force shouldn't have cooperated so fully in the making of the film. If this is how SAC operates, however, every wing commander better be like Rock Hudson, an honor graduate of charm school.

Despite the fact that the story does not check out as completely air-worthy, there is plenty of excitement in the shots of B-52s roaring off the runways. Over and out.

THE WEEK AT THE NEW STRAND

Which is better, Nature or Antonioni? Nature's eclipse ran for only one night, and was only partially successful, although we understand it did well up in Maine. A show like this really needs a big star, Antonioni's ECLIPSE has two big stars, Alain Delon and Monica Vitti; it will run for three nights, THURS.-SAT., July 25-27, and really does a much better job of obscuring. No dark glasses needed.

SHIN DO YA!

Add 1 Tsp. Ajinomoto. There's something reassuring about finding, among the bird's nests and the dried cuttlefish, a loaf of Pepperidge Farm bread and a box of Scotch oatcakes.

The juxtaposition may seem odd, but it's carried off with a shrug at the New Street Shop—"Shin Do Ya"—on New Street in New Hope. Mr. Yosh Kawano, the owner, regards his shop as one of the few remaining neighborhood stores, a rarity in an age of proliferating super-markets.

You can buy anything, anything in the world in this shop. If you need a loaf of bread for Sunday breakfast, there you are. If you want Maryland honey for your pancakes, ditto. Frankfurters and pretzels, daily specials on cheese (wine cheddar for 99 cents a pound, the day we were there), giant discs of Swedish crispbread, fresh eggs, tomatoes, lettuce and goodness knows what else. But here we pause, because it's the "what else" that makes the "Shin Do Ya" a memorable place to shop. Mr. Kawano is a gregarious, chatty man who loves to talk about the delicacies he has in his bins. Perhaps a customer will gingerly pick up a green ginger root. "What do I do with this?" she will ask. And Mr. Kawano will tell her how to grate it, and use it with garlic in a hot, heavy oil like peanut or sesame, to give a sound base for some authentic Chinese dish.

Is it two ounces of dried mushrooms you want for 75 cents? Don't flinch at the price. These are rarities, and not just everyday mushrooms. Fresh snow peas? Here they are, in the cool, crisp along with leeks and Chinese cabbage and fresh lichi nuts.

Ever try a fresh lichi nut? If you are acquainted only with the dried nut, you have no idea of the juiciness and flavor of the fresh nuts. Peel off the outer thistle husk and uncover the juiciest, sweetest "grape" you've ever eaten, a cool and liquid refresher for summer.

If you're going to give a party, this is the place for unusual hors d'oeuvres. Try something that looks like Japanese gefelte fish, and follow Mr. Kawano's suggestion about dipping it in soy sauce and horseradish. Buy the minute dried shrimp, each the size of your thumbnail, and toss them for crispness in a pan of hot oil before you serve them for guests to take by the handful.

For clear soup, use the pressed wheat-cake croutons which expand in liquid like those Japanese flowers you drop into a glass of water. Meanwhile, you can pacify the children with Japanese candy, wrapped in edible rice paper. Susie can awe her friends by popping the whole candy, paper and all, right into her mouth.

To accompany any meal, the New Street Shop has bulk teas and coffees. Japan Green Tea and Keemun Oolong are $1.10 a half pound; Flowery Pekoe, from India, is $1.50. (Many canned teas, too, of course.)

Coffee containers hold Mocha Bogota from Columbia. French roast coffee, strong and double for demi-tasse service. Make your own blend from Mr. Kawano's fragrant supply.

We'll bet you come home with a full basket—coffee, tea, shrimp. The bird's nest? Well, it's sort of a gimmick, Mr. Kawano admits. But it's the real thing, and if you're willing to go to the expense and the trouble, real bird's nest soup can be yours.

Over the River?

We thought we'd take you this week on a summer tour of those pleasant spots along the Delaware River that always attract motorists on summer weekends and afternoons.

Two of our stops are in Lambertville, N. J., which you can reach from Princeton by driving through Hopewell, making a right turn onto Route 518 and following the signs until you reach the town at the river's edge.

The third stop is directly across the Delaware from Lambertville in New Hope, Pennsylvania. It's on New Street. We suggest that you reach New Street by driving south along New Hope's main street to Mechanic Street, then up its steep hill until New Street appears on your left, making its entry at an acute angle. Parking? Right in front of the shop, or a few feet farther on in a public parking lot.

free leaflets with various recipes. We have chicken or fish Mizutaki and suki-yaki. Come over about 8 o'clock.

50,000 TITLES

25 Cents for Some. Vanity Fair is a bookshop in Lambertville (on Bridge Street) with no nonsense about its offerings. No cuttle-cuttle Parnassus-on-wheels atmosphere, no cozy little chair by the fire. Just books, and occasional old prints.

We were drawn to the shop by its 25-cent sale, expecting to find a First Folio or two. We didn't, of course, but we found more books than we've seen in some time—50,000, according to the owner's rough estimate. Not all these are included in the 25-cent sale, of course, but they're all there; you can see them, in the back part of the shop.

Actually, between sales, Vanity Fair does a flourishing business by catalog, having offered at one time or another during the past year, a 13-volume set of Quaker writings.

Blind Congratulations.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
 I have just read in your paper the letter from the Human Rights Committee describing how an elderly Negro couple has been denied available housing in a white neighborhood — not, as usual, because the landlord (or lady) refused, but because the landlady was threatened by a n o n y m o u s phone calls, presumably from people in the neighborhood. Perhaps Birmingham can't happen here, but is there no landlord and no residential neighborhood in Princeton able and willing to offer decent, low-cost housing to this elderly couple? Or shall we Princetonians just go on watching on the television screen Birmingham, Cambridge, Md., and Harlem, while blindly congratulating ourselves that the Negro citizens of Princeton have the same rights in fact, as well as in law, as we white citizens enjoy?

How to Play "Traffic Roulette."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Would you like to play traffic roulette? It's great sport, full of action and suspense. Hundreds of Princeton residents play it daily at the intersection of Red Hill Road and Slate Road — just a stone's throw from Township Hall.

Each player drives his auto to the intersections, pauses obediently at the "Stop" sign and then hurtles across the highway — simultaneously making a left turn. This may not sound like much fun unless you realize that the driver cannot see approaching traffic because overhanging bushes effectively obscure his vision. If he's slightly chicken-hearted, he can crouch to the level of the steering wheel to peer beneath the bushes, but such cautious behavior is frowned upon by veteran players.

There are, undoubtedly, other locations in Princeton where this game is being played. With just a bit of prodding, residents would probably be willing to reveal the location of their favorite "roulette" intersections. This would add variety and zest to the sport.

Some "bluenoses" will probably suggest that these blind intersections present a driving hazard to the ordinary motorist and that the police ought to require property owners to cut down the obstructing shrubbery. We may even hear the voices of a socialistically-oriented minority — the people that instinctively turn to government for a solution to civic problems — urging the Township Committee or Borough Council pass ordinances governing bushes on private property, just as they did in the cases of snow removal from sidewalks and fences around swimming pools.

I trust that the town fathers will not be stampeded by such appeals. There is no reason for spoiling this exciting game until someone has been killed, or at least seriously injured at one of these intersections.

In the meantime, it might be a good idea to issue "certificates of survival" to motorists who can prove they have successfully negotiated such intersections 1000 or more times.

News Of The CHURCHES

CHANGE OF PASTORS

At Church of Christ, The Church of Christ has taken the second step in its development program. Rev. Boothe of Lovington, N. J., began on Sunday a full-time ministry, replacing Noel Kelley, who served part-time.

Early this year, the Church of Christ began a missionary effort unique for this area, inserting on a regular basis paid commentaries in TOWN TOPICS on such subjects as "What Is Your Attitude Toward The Bible?" "The Berens Did Their Own Thinking," and others.

Mr. Boothe is a graduate of Abilene (Texas) Christian College, where he also received his master's degree. He served for two years in Lovington and for seven years in Allentown, Pa., his mission being to build up the congregations of small churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Boothe, who are living on Alexander Road, Princeton Junction, have three children—a daughter 16 and two sons ages 12 and 11 months.

School Bibles

In the future, the Bible will be opened in the Township schools only during a social studies unit on comparative religion, where certain portions of the Koran are also read.

The Township Board of Education formally terminated at its last meeting the long-time custom of opening each school day with the reading of four verses from the Old Testament and the recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Opening exercises this year will be limited to the pledge of allegiance and, as Dr. John J. McKenna, school superintendent, suggested, the "option of singing some verses of a patriotic song."

BULLETIN NOTES

Pass The Poi. The Unitarian Church will hold a swimming party and Hawaiian Luau for adult members this Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Johnson, Elm Ridge Road. Swimming will start at 5 p.m. Reservations may be made through Mrs. Richard B. Benedict, AX 7-3377, or Mrs. Roderick H. Crabb, AX 7-2396. Rain date is Sunday.

Dr. Morris. Dr. Jarvis S. Morris, founding pastor of the Community Presbyterian Church, Kendall Park, has been invited by the Presbytery of New Brunswick to organize a new church in Franklin Township. The congregation of his present church will meet this Sunday following the worship service to act upon his request to be released on October 15. His home is near the Leupp Lane site selected by the Presbytery for the new church.

Summer Church School. The daily vacation church school of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. each weekday from August 5-16. Children entering first grade through sixth grade are welcome. Mrs. Donald F. Barringer and a staff of more than 20 teachers and helpers will conduct the program of music, crafts and recreation. Inquiries may be directed to Mrs. Barringer, TU 3-3462.

Missionary. The Rev. Charles R. Matlock, missionary to the Philippines since 1947, will conduct the 9 and 11 a.m. services this Sunday at All Saints' Chapel, Van Dyke Road. Now on furlough, he will leave for England on September 7 to attend St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, a central house of studies for members of the Anglican Communion.

SUMMER DANCES SET
For Teen-agers and Adults. The YM-YWCA has scheduled one dance for adults and a series of three for young teen-agers at the Y Center.
The Informal YMCA Adult Dance is set for Friday, August 2, at 9, with Aaron Sloan and his orchestra providing music again this year. William Cherry, Dance Committee Chairman, said that the dance would be a repeat of last year's program providing opportunity for dancing to a good dance band, enjoying refreshments amid lanterns on the Y lawn and a concluding swim at midnight.

Tickets are available at the YMCA, and adult couples of the community, as well as regular Y members, are invited to attend. Assisting Mr. Cherry on the committee are: his wife; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitnaul, Mr. and Mrs. George Gerry, Mr. and Mrs. William Warntz, Mr. and Mrs. George Warfield and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCusker.
Boys and girls from Princeton entering the 7th and 8th grades are eligible to attend three dances from 8-10 on Friday nights at the Y Center. The first is scheduled for this Friday, the second for August 9 and the third for August 23.
Membership cards must be presented at the entrance, and 50 cents will be charged for each guest of a member.

It's New To Us

edited by William and Thomas Evans, 16 volumes of the works of William H. Prescott and the contents of a 24-page catalog of fiction.

We found, among the 24-centers, a real true Tom Swift called "Tom Swift and his Motorcycle" in which we found such gleaming jewels as "What's he up to?" cried Tom excitedly, and "Tshaw!" cried Mr. Damon regretfully. "Bless my halibut!"

Blessing our halibut, we moved to another shelf where we found a 24-volume set of Scott's Waverley novels in an 1879 edition from George Routledge and Sons, with steel plates from "Crinkshank and other artists."

Lots of former best-sellers here like "Anthony Adverse" and many of Frank Verby's, like "Pride's Castle" and "A Woman Called Fancy," and enough others to suggest the possibility of Vanity Fair as a place to spend a few dollars on books for vacation reading.

THE KNITTING SHOP

Tulone Street WA 4-0308

Besides books, the shop has a few old prints and some music. Arthur Loesser's arrangement of five Haydn piano sonatas (50 cents) is here. So are playbills from long ago, like Richard Mansfield in "The Merchant of Venice," William Gillette playing The Empire as Sherlock Holmes and Mr. Forbes Robertson and Miss Gertrude Elliott in "Hamlet" at The Knickerbocker. These are 25 cents each.

Picasso's famous 1919 dove of peace is 50 cents, and a group of balloon prints from the early 19th century, is marked at $1 for each.

DISCOVERY?

A Shop for Hunters. Near the Strand Theatre in Lambertville is the Discovery Shop, which has probably been called that because you discover something new every time you go in.

The shop carries items on consignment from owners who no longer need them. Some of the things are new, like the charming rag dolls, big enough to cuddle and quite deliciously hand-made. Some clothing is new, like the flowered pique overblouses and the aprons framed with ball fringe. Other things are clean, in good repair, and still full of life for the woman who finds exactly what she's been looking for.

When we dropped in, the shop had a dark and regal Chinese teak table, old-fashioned "black finish" teak, not modern. There was a pair of small desk paperweights of fossil ferns embedded in a grey matrix and a primitive Mexican pottery bell about five inches tall.

An old muslin bedspread appliqued with an eagle in deep, mustard-brown would be a fine piece for a rough-hewn country guest-room, and a pair of white wicker porch pieces, one a low rocker, the other an armchair, would be restful on a Victorian front porch.

The back room at the Discovery Shop has lots of things for 10 cents. Like windup toys, a basket of sea-shells, alaya ashtray and the like.

One of the most useful and appealing things in the shop is an old desk from some forgotten schoolhouse, minus its pedestal and legs, but comfortable on the floor, inkwell still intact and burnished wood polished and ready for another day.

BUSINESS In Princeton

PICTURE IS HEALTHY

Plus Signs Are Plentiful. The man whose livelihood depends on a healthy economy in the Princeton community this week could note with satisfaction that the plus signs in the Princeton Business Index are as visible as a string of green traffic lights stretching along a busy highway.

Virtually all signs were "go," particularly when compared to figures compiled at the end of the second quarter in 1962. Savings accounts are 14% higher and respective increases of 3 and 13% in checking accounts and loans show that more money is in circulation. Parking meter receipts, a clear index of use of the central business district, are up by 4% for the year and 11% for the last quarter.

Telephones in service, another reflection of consumer purchasing potential, are up 11% in 12 months and held their own for the second quarter of the current year. In the second quarter of '62, they showed a slight decrease — when new installations failed to offset student disconnections.

In common with the national economy, Princeton is benefiting from steadily higher new car sales. They are up 15% over June 30, 1962, and a solid 27% over the first quarter of this year.

Only one Princeton dealer reported a drop in the April-June quarter, and that by a mere two cars; other increases ranged as high as 25 to 50%. Net result: new car sales for the June quarter set a five-year record in Princeton.

Building Activity Slows. The soft spots in the picture are in figures reflecting building activity in Princeton Township, where virtually all the community's unused land lies. New housing starts are down 16% in a year and the total number of permits is 8% lower. The value of new permits is some three and a half times greater (180%), but this is misleading from point of view of housing in the normal sense: about two-thirds of the total figure of $3.1 million is represented by four new University dormitories (1.8 million) and expansion at the Tenacre Foundation on the Great Road ($190,000).

The Borough, which manages to produce new building sites despite the near-total lack of unoccupied lots, shows an increase in permits for both the quarter and the year but sharp decreases in the value of new construction, running respectively to 75 and 91%. Property transfers are fluctuating in volume: they are higher for the quarter but lower for the year in the Township, whereas the reverse is true in the Borough.

NEW BUILDING APPROVED

For Nassau Street Location. A new office building will be constructed at 221 Nassau Street, directly across from St. Paul's School. Necessary variance from unobstructed frontage requirements was granted by the Borough Zoning Board at a special meeting Thursday night.

Edward D. Faroe, Delwin L. Gregory and Margaret Coghlan of Carnegie Realty, Inc. sought the variance so that a three-story, 9250 square-foot structure could be built to replace an existing small apartment house. The new building will have medical offices on the first floor, an apartment and offices on the upper floors. Also included in the plans are 17 off-street parking spaces. The building will be of Colonial design with a brick exterior and will contain an elevator.

There will be no front setback to the new building. At-

Sunday Bingo Rejected. Hillsborough Township Committee has refused a request from Fire Company No. 2 for an ordinance supporting Sunday bingo games.

At Tuesday night's hearing, four letters and six lengthy petitions from local church groups condemning the proposal were read by Township Clerk Lawrence Lang. A capacity crowd of 125 attended the hearing.

Both fire companies hold bingo games to raise money: No. 1 on Thursdays and No. 2 on Mondays. The request for Sunday bingo was based on Fire Company No. 2's belief that the collection would be higher on Sundays. A referendum will appear on the November ballot.

torney A.C. Reeves Hicks explained to the board in presenting the request Mr. Hicks pointed out that neighboring buildings are also set on the front property line.

Attorney Henry M. Stratton II and University Vice-President Ricardo A. Mestres also appeared before the board to ask for reconsideration of conditions made with the earlier approval of a parking lot on

Person To Person

We were reading that the bicycle with levers and pedals was not invented until 1839 and it was another 34 years be-

Cory S. Kammiller fore a bicycle similar to today's was available. But even before improvements in the self-peddled bicycle, in 1868, someone brought out a motorcycle powered by a steam motor. It never became very popular, and it is easy to imagine why. How would you like to be sitting astride a pressurized tank of steam mounted directly under your small seat? But with the introduction of motorcycles something like those of today they 'caught on' and by 1909 the motorcycle and automobile began displacing the bicycle for adult transportation. Most of us have heard the cliché, "It isn't the cost, but the upkeep that hurts most," but a significant paraphrasing of that idea would be, "It isn't the cost but the place where you buy, that can mean most to you." In many a purchase the product or service itself is only half the purchase. The other half is the amount of attention to details given by the dealer and how much he is concerned for your continued welfare. If that half is not completely fulfilled the cost to you can be great indeed to say nothing of the annoyances. We promise you complete fulfillment of this most important "half." Kammiller Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222

Roper Lane. The board approved their petition that an entrance and exit to the upper part of the lot be available from Roper Lane.

The board adopted the suggestion that all traffic leaving the upper lot would be directed to turn left into Roper Lane. This restriction was made in order to reduce the amount of two-way traffic on the road.

The board approved a request by Arthur DeCure to install a barber pole on the John Street side of the new Jack Honore Barber Shop on Palmer Square West. Installation of the pole will be permitted, subject to approval of the plans by the Borough Engineer's office and by Operation Nassau.

BERTOLINI SOLE OWNER

Of Lyons Market, Gerald L. (Jerry) Bertolini will continue the operation of Lyons Market, 8 Nassau Street, as sole owner. His partner, Mrs. William H. Lyons, widow of the former owner, died July 6.

Mr. Bertolini, who came to Princeton in 1927, was employed for a time by Hill's Market and joined Lyons in 1940 as manager. He became a partner in 1947.

Lyons Market, a fixture on Nassau Street since the turn of the century, was founded by John M. Lyons, who sold his interest to his nephew, William.

WITONSKY DEFEATED
 Unequal to Dimpel Resurgence. Just when it appeared that Carl Witonsky would blast defending champion Fritz Dimpel off the court in straight sets Saturday, Dimpel reversed his game completely to win the Princeton YMCA Men's Singles crown 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

The final matches were held at the University's Brookview Courts and culminated a week long series of elimination games. In winning, Dimpel gained revenge over Witonsky who had defeated him two weeks ago en route to the men's single title of Trenton.

Those who participated in the tournament:

EMR HOLDS FIRST PLACE
 Despite Two RCA Victories. Electro-Mechanical Research won its only game last week, but saw its lead slip to one game as RCA came up with a pair of victories.

In a relatively low-scoring contest, EMR triumphed over Engineering Research Center, 5-2, coming up with four double plays. Vince Crivelli, Joe Cervitis and Ernie Bowers all went two-for-three for EMR with Bowers picking up three RBIs. Don Musinski took the loss for ERC, while Jeff Gage had two-for-three.

RCA raised its record to 9-4 beating Columbian Carbon, 22 to 19, and Accelerator, 12 to 7. Max Hopkins hit a two-run homer and Jim Clark weighed in with a triple against Columbian Carbon. Bill McGarrigle got five hits and John Bartolom picked up four for the lasers.

In the Accelerator game, Dave Richmond went three-for-three and Clark three-for-four, off losing pitcher Jack Bartow.

Ken Schenck picked up three hits and Tony Gervasio clouted a four-bagger for Accelerator. Art Hahn earned half victories for RCA, raising his season's record to 8-3.

American Cyanamid moved up two notches in the league standings by handing Columbian Carbon its second loss of the week, 15-7. Pete Thompson got five hits and Roger Hede-mann contributed a grand slam home run for the winners. Bill Blache pitched all the way to win, while Don Waltz was charged with the loss.

Scientific Electronics beat last place Princeton Hospital, 18-8, led by Jack Petrone with three hits, including a homer, and Tanya Pinelli, who went four-for-four. Tom Dwyer picked up two hits in a losing cause. Mike Hsi was the winning pitcher, while Paul Wilkins took the loss.

Educational Testing, which finished on top of the standings at the end of regular season play last summer, held onto third place despite a 7-3 loss to Accelerator, but its record is now 6-5, five full games off the pace. Bob Barry hurled the win, getting a three-for-three performance from John Ruczek and two hits in three trips from Lee Leach.

For ETS, Al Myers hammered and Joe Patrick and Chuck Schultz were three-for-three and two-for-three respectively. The lasers have four games left in which to earn a berth in the playoffs which start the week of August 12.

week in the Police Baseball League.

The new leader gained the top on the strength of victories over the Elks and the Sportsmen. At the same time, Engine No. 1 was upsetting the Eagles, 6-3. All three teams, the Eagles, Engine No. 1 and No. 3, began this week bunched at the top and it looked like a three-way race among them.

In other games, the Lions split a pair to hold on to fourth place, while the Elks continue to nosedive. After capturing their first three outings, the Elks have lost five straight and are floundering in fifth place. Tied with the Elks at 3-5 are the Sportsmen and Post 76. Once again, Hook & Ladder found the competition more than it could handle. It dropped two more as it slipped out of sight with a 0-8 record.

Engine No. 3 won its contest with the Elks in a walk—literally, as Elks pitchers issued 16 free passes. Barry Henninger's homer for the losers was wasted in the walkathon. On the other hand, the winless Sportsmen were surprisingly tough for Engine 3 homers by Jimmy Plone, Mark Nini and Tim Kearns of the Sportsmen were offset by the 3-for-3 performances of Bobby Sweeney, Billy Brooks and Chris Sowers of Engine 3.

The big win for Engine No. 1, of course, was its 6-3 triumph over the Eagles. Pitcher Tim Rollings was the standout. He limited Eagle batters to three hits and fanned eight. His two-run homer in the third added to the lustre of his performance. Some fine base running and defensive play, particularly by Eddie Pluett and Ronnie McEwen, have also been a decisive plus in the team's success.

Picking up the high spots in other games last week, John Clausen homered for Hook & Ladder and Mickey Areano stroked two for Post 76. Jeff Frangos and Bruce Alexander are hitting well for the Eagles and Lions respectively. From the League's baseball school conducted every Saturday morning at Marquand Park, the Sportsmen acquired Steve Kirschner and Dave Tucker to complete their roster.

MATTHEWS ON TOP

In YMCA Junior League, Matthews moved into undisputed possession of first place in the YMCA Junior League last week, on the heels of its 23-1 rout of previously undefeated Water Company which now trails by a half-game.

In other action last week, Nassau Oil blanked Bowers, 10-0, on the 4-for-4 hitting of Paul Casey and Curt Mitchell's three-run homer. On the previous day, Matthews shut out Bowers, too. Again, the score was 10-0. Nassau Oil and Water Company battled to a 3-3 deadlock.

DATE CHANGED

For Old Timers' Game. Friday, August 9, rather than August 8 as announced last week has been selected as the date for the annual Old Timers' Baseball Game. It will be played on Clarke Field east of Palmer Stadium.

For the first time in the Charleyhorse Classic, an appearance will be made by players who represented Princeton on the diamond in the years following World War 1. They won't reach the point of game action — appearance will be limited to a ride in the antique cars being rounded up for the occasion.

Jim Hогarty, whose baseball skill once helped bring numerous victories to games played on Brookaw Field, has been named to the committee to represent this generation of the Old Timers. Owners of vintage cars who will make them available for the parade are asked to notify George Gallup 3d, Tom or Jack Petrone, B. E. Bergensen Jr. or Hогarty.

JUNIOR GOLF HELD

At Springdale, Jack McCarthy and Peter White won the Junior 9-hole Best Ball Handicap Tournament in the 15-18 years old division Thursday at Springdale with a net 36. Winners in the 12-14 bracket were Kurt Mitchell and Dave Frothingham, net 38.

The 9-11 age group section of the tournament was won by James Young and Gilbert Farr with a net 32. In the girls' division, the winners were Pam Orr and Lynn McLean, net 34.

ERC IS TROUNCED, 20-1

In Girls' Softball. The Princeton Girls' Softball League has reached the half-way mark of its season with one of its four member teams, ERC (Western Electric), still looking for its first victory.

In its seventh attempt to capture that elusive first one, ERC never came close. This time, the second-place Warriors squeaked them, 20-1. Opening the game with a home run, the Warriors applied the coup de grace in the second inning when they scored eight times. The losers averted a
